

A movie review

Is Your Dream Good?

The BFG is based on a book written by Roald Dahl. In the movie, Sophie (Ruby Barnhill) and BFG (Mark Rylance) are the main characters.

Sophie is an adorable little girl, who lives in an orphanage. One day, she cannot sleep and notices a strange sight in the street. She sees a giant man and the giant sees Sophie too. Then, the giant picks her up and runs back to his cave. After living together for a long time, they become close to each other. They embark on a meaningful and exciting adventure together.

After watching this film, I think the plot is thrilling. You will never feel bored while watching this film. The soundtrack is awesome and the special effects like the “flying dreams” are exquisite. It is hilarious and amusing when the giant says some grammatically wrong sentences. The plot is so touching that I cried like someone has put an onion under my eyes.

I am completely fascinated by the film. I am still in high spirits. If I must use one word to describe the film, it will be ‘excellent’. I highly recommend this film to all of you.
