

A minuscule change can be meaningful!

By Chris Wong

Last edited: 19 June 2022 12:15

Hello everyone, long time no see! It's me again! Have you ever heard of a new online project called 'Making a difference at your school', which is brought out by the Change the World website? My school held a meaningful event for students in other parts of the world recently. What is that? If you are curious, please read on and unravel the mysteries!

Our school held a 'Nurturing new lives' event, which aims to plant some trees in a country park. Have you even planted trees before? I pledge the answer is probably no. In view of this, the school launched a zoom meeting for other students all over the world to join the event. As we all know, trees all over the world have been cut and our environment has become worse, including our lovely planet – Earth. So the 'Nurturing new lives' event was brought out by our school in order to teach students the importance of protecting the environment. Besides, this event is also a good demonstration for other schools and people all over the world to learn since they can see the live event through the zoom meeting. Don't you think so?

This was held last Saturday, which is utterly enduring for all of us. All of our schoolmates and online participants were divided into various groups and went to different country parks. When I first arrived at Tai Tam country parks, the astonishing views made me feel relaxed and energetic for the work we need to do later. I could feel that life is amazing in nature. Students in other countries cannot wait to travel and protect the environment in their motherlands! Unfortunately, there are tremendous people cutting trees and destroying the environment. After the introduction of the teachers and helpers, we started to plant trees. And this is one of my indelible memories from this event. We needed to make the soil loose and put the seeds into it one by one. With the hot sunshine, I felt burnout in a few minutes. If you had a chance to have a similar event, I strongly recommend you drink more water! However, whenever I felt exhausted, I would think of the obnoxious people who destroyed the environment. Besides, thanks to the encouragement from other students all over the world, we didn't give up. This gave me energy and pushed me to work! At last, I have planted 10 trees and our form has planted over 1000 of them! Unbelievable right? A minuscule effort of each of us could finish such a big project. All of the students in the zoom meeting felt amazed and decided to enroll in some tree planting events in their home country.

After this event, all of us know that nurturing a life is not that easy. With our concerted effort, we can make a paramount change! We can be the student leaders to protect the environment and be the courage of other students. This is a big step to change us, or even the world! Do you want to join this event? Our school will have the next online event for you to change the world. Stay tuned and see you next time! Don't forget to subscribe, 'like', and share my blog! Bye!