Dear Diary,

Oh, Diary! Do you know who my 'Superman' is? The answer is ... she is a very hardworking mother who takes care of me every day — that's right, Mum — maybe you don't understand why. But, in the end, you will know my feelings WELL!

When the sun hadn't risen yet and the rooster was still snoring and sleeping, Mom got up early to make breakfast for our family. Wait until after breakfast, she's about to start the housework, for example, cleaning the house, washing clothes, going to the market to buy food, etc., to deal with big and small things at home. Never, never stop.

It's lunch time, she made me a very, very, very rich lunch! She always left the delicious food for me, but she ate some leftovers that I didn't eat. After lunch, my mother also taught me to do my homework. Despite getting bored, I tried to listen. Because it's worth it.

I went shopping with my mother in the afternoon. Finally, we entered a store after a long walk. However, because of my playfulness, I accidentally knocked over some merchants. Although I made a big mistake, she didn't blame me. Instead, she took the responsibility and apologized to the merchants. At night, Dad scolded me for this. Then! My mother stood up and defended me, saying that 'It was just an accident!' So, my heart was instantly touched at that moment.

In the end, I am really grateful to my mother for all the sacrifices she had for me. So, from today onwards, I decided to study hard, be myself, and be filial to my mother. After today, I understand how great maternal love is and every mother deserves to be treated well.

It's time to sleep. Bye for now!

Love,

John
