

A Letter to the Editor about Energy Saving

Dear Editor

I am writing to express my concern over energy saving. I have discovered that not many students at our school were environmentally conscious, especially on energy wastage. In view of this, I would like to suggest some suggestions for what students can take part in at school to achieve it.

As a matter of fact, energy efficiency and conservation have been controversial topics for a while. But the students still could not realize the importance of protecting the environment. Hong Kong has already faced different kinds of pollutants with water pollution being the most serious. However, students always produce lots of energy waste by forgetting to turn off the lights before leaving the classrooms, turning on the air-conditioners instead of fans when the weather isn't very hot. In our records of energy usage, we found out that the condition of wasting energy has already become very terrible. The following ways are my suggestions for reducing energy wasting.

First, we should hold more activities which are about energy saving. It can make the students know more about the importance of protecting the environment. We can invite some famous celebrities to talk about it or we can have a drama performance to bring out the idea of protecting the environment.

Moreover, we can stick some posters on the whiteboards or notes beside the on/off buttons. It can remind the students to turn off the electrical appliances before leaving the classrooms.

At the end of the day, it won't be an easy mission to reduce the energy by one man's work. We have to work together, to help the environment. Remember that protecting the environment is not only for ourselves but also for the future generations. Thus, let's take action to make the world become a better place!

Yours faithfully,

Mitchell Zhao
