

Dear Diary,

Thanksgiving Day is coming! People often say 'thank you' to someone they're grateful to on this day. I also want to thank someone who is very important in my life! Do you know who he is? Yes, he's my buddy Kingston.

As you know, we have known each other since kindergarten. Even though we are studying in different secondary schools, we have gatherings regularly and we also go on holidays together! I'm thankful for having this companion!

Not only is Kingston my good playmate, but he's also my good listener. He's helped me a lot. When I face some challenges at school, I will tell him and ask for his advice. He is very patient to listen to me and tells me how to solve my problems. You can imagine how helpless I would be without him!

But to me, what I really should thank him for is his tolerance to my weaknesses. I remember I got mad at him because of minor things. Although he was a bit angry, he still forgave me and didn't leave me alone.

I'm so lucky to have Kingston as my good friend! Because of him, I will try to keep my temper and get rid of my weakness. I promise I'll be more considerate of his feeling.

With the coming of Thanksgiving Day, I really want to thank my best friend for being so kind to me. He makes me realize the real meaning of true friend. I'll try to cherish this lifelong friendship more and be his good buddy through ups and downs! It's so great to have Kingston as a friend! Good night, Diary!

Love,

Terrence
