On a dark and stormy night, there was a loud noise coming from a gigantic, dome-shaped biology laboratory.

“Why am I staying in this laboratory? Where are my father and mother? Please tell me everything, Krystal!” asked a two-meter-tall alien with a begging tone.

“Oh, Samuel. You have asked this question for many, many times already. Don’t you feel annoyed with that? I said, your parents are living in another place. They’re happy and safe. And others, there’s no need to know,” answered Krystal, a beautiful woman who is wearing a white laboratory gown.

“Are you kidding me? I’ve been here for ten years and I know nothing about my family! Please tell me everything and do not hide anything!” Samuel grumbled.

Krystal could not say a word. After a few minutes, she said, “Ok, Samuel. Come and take your seat. Let me tell you a story.” Samuel then walked to Krystal and sat on a white sofa with a pleasant smile.

Krystal started the story.

“Once upon a time, a woman took a leisure walk along the promenade outside her laboratory at night. The sky was full of stars. The woman looked at the bright stars because they were eye-catching. But she suddenly found something weird that one of the ‘star’ became bigger and nearer. 'Why is that star flying toward me? Or is it an illusion?' the woman was puzzled."

"All of a sudden, there was an extremely loud sound. The woman didn't realize what happened and then she heard some miserable screams. She looked toward the place where the sound came from. She saw that something had just crushed onto the ground. She went to have a look and actually she discovered it was a spaceship and there were two aliens in it. The woman was shocked but the aliens were seriously hurt, so she immediately carried them to her laboratory to save them."

"She took care of the two aliens carefully and they slowly recovered and they soon became friends with the woman. They chatted a lot and treated each other well."

"On a silent night," Krystal continued, "the two aliens slept comfortably on their bed. At that time, someone walked to them slowly, with a cruel and terrible smile. It was the woman who saved them! She held two poisonous syringes and vigorously injected the two aliens with poison while they were having a good sleep."

"Why did the woman do so?" Samuel questioned.

"In fact," Krystal replied, "the woman wanted to dissect the unknown species. She pretended to be friends with them because of this evil intention," Krystal said. "When the woman cut the two aliens' tummies open, she discovered that there were thousands of alien eggs inside the female alien's body!"

“There were many shiny eggs in the female alien’s tummy. The eggs kept changing their colour constantly. They were as colourful as rainbow and as shiny as the sun. At first, the beautiful eggs caught the woman's eye and she didn’t notice the trouble. Suddenly, the eggs became larger and larger. They floated into the air and broke open. Many small babies came out from the eggs screaming. That unbelievable scene frightened the woman and she was transfixed. She couldn’t do anything to stop them leaving the laboratory.”

“The babies were different from the two older aliens. The adults couldn’t fly, but the babies could. They quickly spread over the city. Hundreds, maybe thousands of small aliens were all over the city and darkened the sky. Everyone in the city was terrified. None of the citizens understood what was happening while the alien babies were drinking up all the freshwater and eating all the plants. They were devouring everything from the rainforest to the flowers in all the backyards. The woman suddenly thought that it might be the end of the human history.”

“When the woman was staring at the darkened sky and the shiny city, she found that there was light which covered the two elder aliens. When she took a good look at them, she found that the aliens were healing themselves! Their wounds disappeared in a few seconds.

They woke up.

They had no response to the woman's voice. They just sat on the bed and their eyes were shining in a strange green colour. They spoke after a while. ‘What happened?’ asked one of the aliens. ‘I’m sorry,’ said the woman, pointing at the sky. The aliens saw all their babies floating in the air. That wasn't what they expected. They only wanted to make friends with humans, not to conquer or destroy the planet. They looked at each other and the light in their eyes disappeared."

"However, the two aliens did something that surprised the woman. A huge ball appeared above the male alien's hand. He threw it to the air with all his strength. The floating ball sucked most of the smaller baby aliens into it and the people were saved."

Krystal stopped. She was desperately trying to control herself not to cry.

"Don't stop, Krystal! What happened next?" asked Samuel.

Krystal nodded and continued telling the story.

"After that," Krystal sighed, "The woman felt sorry for the two aliens. She decided to hide from them."

"How?" asked Samuel. Krystal shrugged her shoulder, "She just... left the laboratory and the two aliens alone. Stupid, right?" Krystal laughed with regret and continued, "However, one day, she went back to the laboratory and found the two aliens were still waiting for her at the front door. Her tears started to burst out from her eyes. She kept apologizing to them for the wrongdoings she had done."

"Did the aliens forgive her?" asked Samuel again.

“The two aliens must be mad!” Krystal yelled, “They hadn't just forgiven her. They even gave their eldest baby to her for biological investigation before they left the earth!” exclaimed Krystal, “Also, they promised to keep in touch with each other. The End! ”

“Wow what an exciting story!” Samuel said, “But Krystal, why are you telling me this story?” Krystal didn't answer. She just walked to the computer and said, “Just come here and you'll know.”

In the computer monitor, two aliens were seen. They seemed happy and safe. They were Sam and Sammi, the two aliens that were in the story told by Krystal.

“Hey there Krystal,” said Sam with a relaxing tone, “how is my dear Samuel?”
“Is he calling me?” asked Samuel. “Yes, he is. Say hi to your dad!” said Krystal, pointing at the monitor.
“What's going on? I'm totally confused!” shouted Samuel. The aliens laughed, “Seems that we need more time to explain what is happening around this cute baby...” said Sammi.

The night was cold but the whole laboratory was filled with happiness and laughter...
