Diary

Have you ever experienced that you didn't bring enough money to have dinner in an expensive restaurant? This is what happened to me.

On the last day of the uniform test, my classmates invited me to have dinner with them the next day.

As agreed, after visiting the Hong Kong Science Museum, we went to Tsuen Wan at once and had dinner. My friend Kevinn Cheung, Caridee Au, Alicia Lau, Daniel Zeng, Johnny Wong, Coco Weng and I had great fun in the restaurant. We talked and laughed together. Also, Johnny brought a Switch, which was a popular game console. We played together and had a great time. Caridee and Alicia brought us to the restaurant called "The Principle of Roast Meat". When we got into the restaurant, there were many people waiting outside the restaurant. Fortunately, we booked the table before we came.

Inside the restaurant, there were many customers. Luckily, we found an empty seat. After we sat down, we started to get food from the food station (It was like the buffet style). We got some pork chops, steaks, sweet potatoes, etc. They were very delicious. We ate a lot until we couldn't eat anymore.

When we got the bill from the waiter, you guess how much did we eat totally? It was two thousand and three hundred dollars! I was in shock at that time. How could I have enough money to pay? I was so nervous that I might need to help the manager to wash the dishes because I just had $68 in my wallet! OMG!

Luckily, Kevinn had brought spare money so we could go home. But I needed to pay back $160 to her! Also I paid the 'least' amount of money. I was so embarrassed at that time.

This story told me that I need to bring enough money before dining out with my dear friends. Ha ha!
